2. According to [REDACTED] was required to return this automobile to the manufacturer for export to the United States upon leaving [REDACTED] for permanent duty in the United States. Because the car came back to the United States through this channel, the dealer in New York who received the car was required to pay import duty amounting to $117.00. [REDACTED] reimbursed the dealer when he picked up the car on 1 October 1952.
